

Wait

© BMI by Dennis J. Barela

I'll wait and call you after ten
And then I'll wait till you say when
Meet me half way in the middle, meet me in the back
Meet me out where no one knows
The wrong side of the tracks

(chorus)

Wait for me and I'll wait for you
Ain't no promise we can make
That we can't break in an hour or two
I'll wait for you if you wait for me
Cause one of us might fall and ruin all responsibility

You'll wait for me to speak my peace
I'll wait for you (You're such a tease)
Keep the topics strictly business, keep within the lines
If you should want to change the subject
That suits me just -fine (chorus)

(bridge)

But what if you should make a move
That's meant to be a sign
And I go on Oblivious
To waste this precious time
So, I'll wait for you to make your move
Cause I've got nothing left to prove
What are we to tell the others, what if they find out?
Let's wait till the timing leaves no shadow of a doubt
